MONEY TO THE DOGS
Judge Thomas D. Johnston has been discovered in the act of "throwing money to the dogs."
"Or if it is hard to conceive of such an act accomplishing a humanitarian and philanthropic objective."
Yet that is just what the jurist did and his action has been sustained and approved by the court of appeals.
When the phrase, "throwing money to the dogs" is used it is customary to jump at the conclusion that the act of the person has been thrown away without rhyme or reason for a frivolous purpose—which shows that it does not always pay to jump at conclusions.
In the present instance it is no exaggeration or misuse of the queen's English to say it is a "dog-gone good story" and that Judge Johnston is rather proud of the role he played in it, as the action of the appeals court raises an already high betting average for having cases upheld, taken up there by attorneys not satisfied with his decisions.
Doubtless some people who read the opening paragraph got the notion that I was going to discuss the dog track case, a controversial matter which has already excited much discussion within and without the confines of this county. Incidentally I fear, however, that the trial of the dog track case has been shifted to Judge Johnston's court and that he will preside at the trial of the seven men accused of selling pools on the children. Be that as it may it has nothing to do with the matter under discussion. The two stories are entirely distinct and separate so back to the original theme.

A few months ago the bodies of a couple by the name of Somerville were found one day in the garage of their home in the eastern end of the county. Apparently it was a suicide pact and the cause of death was monoxide poisoning. A holographic will was found in which it was declared that in event the testator's wife survived him she was to get their property, but if she

Milk Cut Price
Here A Mistake
Says Attorney
MARTINEZ, March 17.—It was all a mistake Judge A. F. Bray was told today when the application of the Contra Costa Retail Grocers' Association, the Contra Costa Milk
Dealers Association and William M.
Lutz, San Pablo dairymen for an injunction against the Hagstrom Food Stores, Inc., to prevent a milk war, was being argued.
The author of the statement was Harold Huevion, attorney for the Hagstrom Stores, who explained that when the price circular was sent out it was not intended to apply to Contra Costa county, but inadvertently got to the Concord store of the firm. After milk had been put on sale there for three hours at the cut price of nine cents a quart, orders were sent to the store to desist from selling milk at a cut price. The attorney argued that as the Contra Costa territory in reality was not affected, the suit should be dismissed.
On the other hand Carleton L.
Rank, attorney for the plaintiffs contended for the issuance of the injunction as prayed for in the complaint. He said that the one-cent reduction per quart would cost the distributors in the Alameda area, comprising Richmond and El Cerro in this county and Oakland, Albany, Alameda, Hayward and Piedmont in Alameda county between $60,000 and $70,000 a day.
Further argument will be resumed tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

ENTIRE CITY INUNDATED BY TORRENTS

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Wednesday, March 18.—UP—Swept by the worst flood since 1899, Johnstown today appealed for food and medical supplies which will be sorely needed when the raging torrents subside.
The appeal was broadcast by Jay Williamson, manager of the telephone company as a 15-foot wall of water roared thru the business and industrial district and threatened hundreds of refugees marooned atop buildings.
The city was paralyzed. Power lines were down and it was in darkness. Only a few telephone lines were up. All rail lines and highways were washed out.

The water swirled into the business section of this mountain community of more than 60,000 inhabitants from two rivers, the Conemaugh and Stony creek.

LAWYER FOR DAVE SCORES STATE CASE

SAN JOSE, March 17.—UP—Police bungling and prosecution efforts to conceal vital evidence were charged by Defense Attorney Leo R. Friedman today with creating whatever impression the State has achieved that David Lamson killed his wife.
Friedman, who successfully defended Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle in the sensational Virginia Rappe case, stalked back and forth before the seven men and five women in the jury box, assailing prosecution points.

NOTHING TO PROVE
"The defense has nothing to prove. It's up to the State to prove that David Lamson murdered his wife," Friedman declared.
He turned to Prosecutor Allen E. Lindsey's contention that a spot of blood on a trap door leading to the bathroom where Mrs. Lamson's nude body was found Memorial day, 1933, offered proof that Lamson must have beat her to death with a length of iron pipe as claimed by the State.

CONCEALED EVIDENCE
"Why did the prosecution conceal during the first and second trials the presence of a step ladder in the Lamson hall?" Friedman queried. "Any of the six officers who tramped through the Lamson bathroom, examined the bloody clothing and articles there, and then climbed up the ladder to inspect the trap door could have put that spot of blood there as they" (Continued On Page 8)

The jury found that Denning died from shock and hemorrhage caused from a crushed skull and chest.
In the case of Duncan McGregor, 40-year-old Oakland man who was drowned at the Richmond wharf on the same evening Denning was killed, the jury returned a verdict of death from natural causes, attributable to heart failure. Evidence showed that McGregor was dead before he struck the waters of the bay.
Acute lobes pneumonia, natural causes, was the verdict in the death of Charles A. Cronin, 55, Hercules man, who was found dead in his home on March 9.

BERLIN, March 17.—UP—Germany today decided to sit with the League of Nations Council in London in a last minute effort to avert a Franco-British military alliance.
In a startlingly brilliant change of tactics Chancellor Adolf Hitler ordered his confidential diplomatic adviser, Joachim von Ribbentrop, to proceed by airplane to London in sudden, unexpected response to the overtures of British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden.
Already moved to military re-occupation of the Rhineland by dread of the Franco-Soviet pact, the Fuehrer sought to drive a wedge between France and Britain.
He decided the moment has come for effective intervention in London for an attempt to smother a possible League Council verdict that Germany is guilty of treaty breaking.
Hitler, observers believed, is attempting to modify the international situation in Germany's favor. He considered that had Germany further hesitated to go to London for discussions regarding the League's verdict a Franco-British military alliance could not have been averted.
Ribbentrop's presence at St. James palace Thursday is expected to change the situation.

SANTA FE CAGERS ENTER COUNTY TITLE PLAY

Tough Guys Are Found Even In Canine Kingdom

For the tough, tough guys in every branch of sport, the kind of fellows who in the heat of competition are just as likely as not to forget the rules and overstep the bounds of athletic propriety.

And these "toughies" of greyhound racing, who might after a while carry on their own pursuit of the elusive rabbit at the El Cerrito track, differ little from humans.

There are some dogs who love to take a nip at rivals. Of course their nips are not fatal, but they do not stop a hound from running up a perfectly good race.

The other night in a hurdle race Stockholder was away due to front after clearing the last barrier and looked like a sure winner. Suddenly he wheeled half way around and as a result finished fourth, much to the disgust of those who had picked him to win. Now what was on Stockholder's canine mind only he knows. Maybe he was looking for some dog to battle or again he might have been like a lot of human runners who figure that they have the race won and can take a look around to see how far back the others are.

As in other sports there are penalties for rule infractions. A dog that persists in fighting gets sent back to schooling races. If he continues his pugilistic tactics he finally is barred from the track. So you see even a dog must play the game according to the rules or else.

Rose's Entry Is Challenge To Speed Demons

One of Southern California's best independent auto racers, Bud Rose of Pasadena, will make his first appearance on any Northern California track next Sunday afternoon in the sensational flat track races at Oakland speedway.

Rose is built like Rex Mays, being 6 feet 4 inches in height and of lean and lanky build. He won the 1935 trophy as high man for trophy dashes at San Diego speedway, has won feature events at Phoenix, Santa Maria and other good tracks, which are rapidly making his bid for national recognition.

Only the fact that Oakland Speedway has scheduled a flat track race in which the drivers will use the half mile oval in front of the grandstand and slide freely on the short turns, induced Rose to leave the Pacific Southwest circuit to race at Oakland.

Rose's entry was received yesterday at speedway headquarters, Hotel Leanington.

With most of the best drivers scheduled to face the starter's flag next Sunday afternoon, Rose's entry means a definite challenge to the Northern California speed kings.

Rose is 22 years old and a corner, stated one speedway official yesterday. "It is safe to say that Rose will be a sensation on the half-mile Oakland track Sunday."

Practically the entire field which raced at San Jose speedway last week will re-enter the Oakland races, making this a "hot" field.

Popular demand has been stirred for the English type flat track racing, and as a consequence the forthcoming program promises to eclipse any previous race. The Sunday card

RAILROADERS WIN FAST ONE FROM DANVILLE

The Santa Fe basketball team last night nosed out the Danville club in the county league by a score of 47-46 in one of the most spectacular games ever played in the league.

Stan Nelson went wild again to score 22 points—and he scored them when they were needed most.

Before a raving crowd of Danville supporters, the Danville team kept the lead, ending the half 22 to 21.

As the game neared the close, the score stood 46 to 40 with the Danville club on top. There were only 40 seconds to play when Stan Nelson broke loose and scored three baskets, one right after the other to tie up the score.

With six seconds to go, the Danville club became excited and called for time out. It was their fourth rest period and as a result they were penalized a free throw.

J. Nelson was chosen to make the free throw for the local club. He stepped up to the line and tossed it in—to win the ball game.

As a result of their victory the Richmond team will meet the winners of the Martinez Moose-Pittsburg Mission Grove game for the championship of the league. The game will be played Thursday and a record crowd of local rooters will attend the game.

In the second game last night the Mission Grove club defeated Pittsburg Foresters, 58-42.

Brevity Ties World Mark

IN A most amazing performance that set the racing world agog, Joseph E. Widener's Brevity equaled Discovery's mile and a furlong record by winning the $26,050 Florida Derby at Hialeah Park, Miami. Mr. Widener holds the nervous horse after the race. Wayne Wright, jockey who rode him to victory, is on the horse.

HIGH SCHOOL NINE WINS IN FAST CONTEST

The Richmond Union high school baseball team broke into the victory column yesterday by nailing out the strong John Swett team of Crockett by a score of 1-0 at the high school field.

The contest, which went seven innings, was a pitcher's duel from start to finish. Young Leonard Smith was on the mound for the Ojers and he allowed three scattered hits and struck out eleven men.

Caballos of the Crockett team displayed a world of form and he allowed only two hits and struck out nine Richmond men.

For six innings the teams battled on even terms. Then, in the last of the seventh the local boys went to bat. Rocha was the first man up and walked. A second later he stole second and when the pitcher tossed the ball over the second baseman's head, he went to third.

Mother Refused Kidnaping Writ By Oakland Court

OAKLAND, March 17.—UP—Mrs. Hazel Berry of San Francisco today was refused a kidnaping complaint against Mrs. Sarah Scott of Albany when Mrs. Berry's son, Robert, 13, told Alameda county Deputy District Attorney Arthur Sherry that he was staying voluntarily with Mrs. Scott rather than with his mother.

Meanwhile, a petition for guardianship, brought by Mrs. Scott against Mrs. Berry, was on file in the office of the Alameda county clerk.

Mrs. Scott asserts, in her petition, that she and her husband, John Scott, reared Robert during the first three years of his life. She said the boy's mother brought him to the Scott home several weeks ago to recover from an illness and that when the mother called to take her son home, he refused to accompany her.

LEGAL MAN HURT

William Braga, 22, of Fifth and Bush streets, San Pablo, sustained cuts, bruises and possible internal injuries when the car in which he was riding overturned on Tank Farm Hill Friday.

Braga was returning home from work at Selby and was riding with three other men. He told police that he did not know what the men's names were as he has only worked at Selby for two days. When State highway police arrived at the scene of the accident in response to a radio call, the car was gone and the three men had disappeared. It is believed that the other three men in the car were not injured.

TRAIN HITS CAR

In the third spectacular accident, George Cooper, 54, Eighteenth street, had a narrow escape from death when his car was struck by a speeding Northern Pacific train at the Carleton avenue crossing. Cooper leaped out of his machine just before the impact and escaped injury. His car was completely wrecked.

According to police reports, Cooper had just had his sedan washed and was driving away from the station toward his home. As he approached the railway crossing he said, he saw the train—eastbound. No. 218—approaching. Cooper applied his brakes, he said, and discovered to his horror that when the car was washed the brakes were water soaked and would not function. Cooper then applied his emergency brake and that too failed.

Motion For Separate Trial Delayed Day

MARTINEZ, March 17.—The motion on behalf of Leroy Bussey, accused of participation in the killing of Allen S. Knight, 46-year-old Antioch ark dweller, for a separate trial, which was to have been argued this morning before Judge A. F. Bray, was postponed until tomorrow at the hour of ten by reason of the time of the court being occupied in hearing arguments in the milk injunction case.

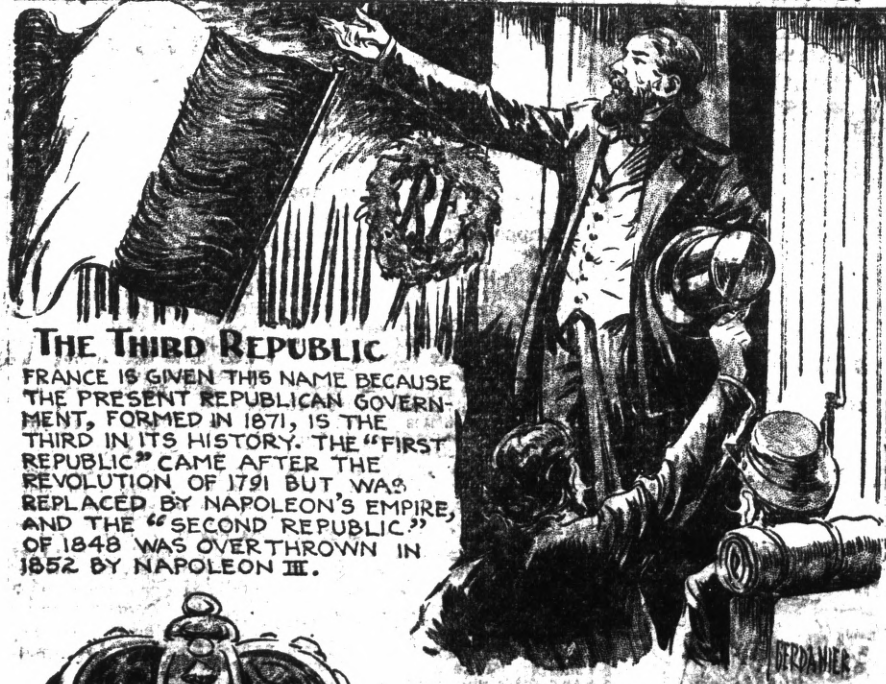

Bussey's attorney, James P. Hoey, contended that there is no evidence connecting his client with the killing. Refused a writ of habeas corpus by Judge Bray he was equally unsuccessful in obtaining one from the district court of appeals. An application for a writ is now pending.

In the Supreme court, and need, Hoey will go to the courts.

In the meantime he does not intend to have Bussey tried with other two defendants, Lewis and Willis Sutton, fearful of evidence against them would be lost.

Bussey is in the jail at San J. C. where he was a team Williams.

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

When You Complain of Brain Fog Some of Your Brain Cells Are in Coma

By CLAUD NORTH CHRISMAN, M.D.

COMA is a beautiful Greek word we have taken over just as it sounds in the original. It means deep sleep, or the complete absence of conscious sensation. The central functions of respiration and cardiac motion are sustained so that life is continued, but all voluntary motivation is stopped. As in the more active state of convulsions, which we have been discussing, the different phases of coma are factors by which we make our diagnoses. In the comparative inactivity of a state of coma, the eyes are likely to be closed, the breathing, the color of the face. A state of coma is produced first by some definite pressure on the brain centers, made by a clot of blood, a fragment of detached tissue, or a tumor. It may be caused by the congestion following inflammation, or some poison in the blood may act directly on the connections of the central cells.

DR. CHRISMAN

Eyes Dilated

In the case of pressure the pupils of the eyes are likely to be dilated and probably will not respond to light. This is true in cases of cerebral hemorrhage. When there is a diseased condition among the brain cells, like tumor or meningitis, it is pretty sure to be demonstrated in the eye mechanism.

In the earlier stages of compression, the pulse is slow and deep, so deep as to sound like snoring. Unless the compression is so severe as to cause fever or local inflammation, the temperature will rise very little.

Among the most common causes are uremia and diabetes, both of which diseases overload the system with toxins. The poisoning effect of uremia is often not suspected or little recognized in the earlier stages. Persons in what seems to be reasonable health may pass suddenly into a coma of uremic poisoning.

Sometimes a single paroxysm will be the unexpected signal and insensibility soon follows. This state is a serious one and indicates a dangerous condition however sudden. The situation is made more serious by the fact that the secretion of urine is immediately diminished and such secretion is eliminated will be deficient in urea.

This means that this important channel of elimination is not functioning and the system is rapidly overloaded with toxic materials. Whatever these toxins are, they are being retained by the blood instead of being carried off by the urine. The poison generated acts directly on the nerve centers.

Diabetes Coma

The coma of diabetes comes so late as a rule that it is likely to be the beginning of the end. This happens in the case of young patients whose systems have yielded to exhaustion. The possibility of coma has made difficulty in arranging a supporting diet in cases of diabetes, particularly when the diet has to be made quite liberal. It might be well to mention here that some of the "slimming" programs have resulted seriously because of the failure of the organs to function properly under too severe a regime.

The coma of diabetes is marked by the very labored breathing through the heart speeds up. This difficult breathing is a feature of certain comas sometimes met in cases of anemia. This is especially true in pernicious anemia or following hemorrhages or dysentery.

The coma of alcoholism is distinguished and all too well known by the flushed face and blue lips of the subject.

The condition of coma can only be treated for the symptoms, warming the cold extremities, keeping the head low.

The "brain fog" of which many of you complain is really a state of coma in cells of the brain overcome by poison from fatigue, indigestion or excesses of any sort.

Modes and Manners

QUESTION: "Please tell me whether it is up to the man to look after his girl friend's wardrobe after paraphernalia, which she may desire to check for the evening at the theater or a dance?"

ANSWER: If there happens to be only one checking booth for men and women, the man may take care of all the checking. But if own and the girl friend's where there is a separate place where women's things are checked, the girl friend attends to her own checking, paying the fee or tip out of her own pocketbook.

QUESTION: "How far from the edge of the table should one place the service plate—C.S."

ANSWER: One inch. All silver should be placed on a line equally distant from the table's edge.

Profiles For Today

He's Warming Up for Utilities Fight

By TALBOT LAKE

SENATOR HUGO L. BLACK of Alabama started at the beginning of this session of Congress by being bored, but it didn't last long. Now he is infiltrated with excitement, full of combativeness.

Black is chairman of the Senate Committee to Investigate Lobbying Activities. Big New York and Chicago law firms have challenged him to have access to their files.

So the fight with the utilities companies is warming up and the pallid but intense, black-haired senator is getting the action he enjoys. Black's Senate seat, which he has held for nine years, was formerly occupied by the imposing Oscar Underwood and later by Senator Bankhead. When Black ran for the Senate in 1926, Senator Bankhead didn't bother to make much of a campaign against him. The fight was interesting, however, as Black daringly abandoned the oratorical traditions of Ben Tillman's days and gave the voters a simplification of issues, without linguistic trimmings. The contest resulted in Black going in and Bankhead going out.

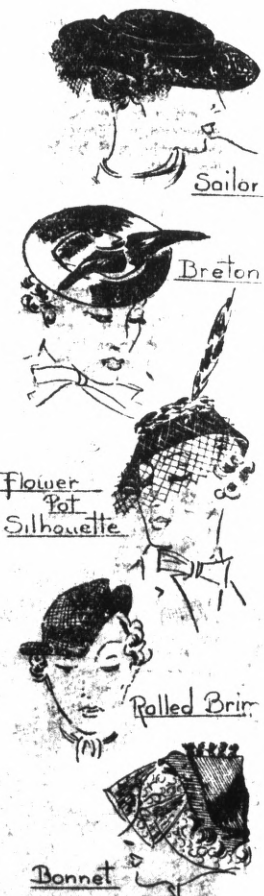

Black is a convincing speaker in debate and capable of hard plugging when mastery of any complicated subject is required. At present he is doing a lot of study on constitutional points—trying hard to catch up on the issues now before or likely to come before the Supreme Court.

The Senator was a farm boy who worked his way through the University of Alabama. He followed law as a young David Snodgrass down Goliath. He was a judge when he made his now historic fight for the Senate seat. In this campaign his opponent tried to tag him with the Ku Klux label, but it didn't stick. Senator Black is a Baptist, an Odd Fellow, a Shriner and a member of the Knights of Pythias. In the World War he attained the rank of captain.

High Hats the Thing

For formal afternoon and evening wear, high heels are in the lead, although low heels are far more popular than they were a year ago. For informal daytime wear, the greatest demand is for the sensible heel that is a little less than two inches high.

Remodeling Child Often Ridiculous

By JACQUELINE HUNT

EVERY mother probably wishes her little daughter could have curls and a face that is fair and lovely as a fairy child.

I wanted curls for my own niece, but when I set her romping like a wild young Indian with her lithe, brown body, big brown eyes and strongly marked features, I knew that's ridiculous. Curls just wouldn't go with her face or with her personality.

All I can do is brush and shampoo and brush some more to keep her fine, straight hair half way presentable.

"How can I remove the freckles from my little girl's face?" one mother writes. Another wants to know if she should bleach her little daughter's blonde curls to keep them light. Ever so many mothers want to know how they can make their children's hair curl and ask whether they should resort to a permanent wave.

Mothers are that way! They would rather have their daughters pretty than successful and famous. And it is a good thing, too, if you in the courts do not carry the matter to extremes!

For instance, a child's sensitive skin should never be subjected to bleaches for removing freckles. Neither can you deny her the life-giving sun and fresh air, just because a little sunshine brings out a sprinkling of freckles on her nose.

Maybe they will outgrow them—maybe they belong with her vivid personality, and boyish wind-blown hair. Only you mustn't fret about them and make her feel these little speckles, which are not really blemishes at all.

And please do not ruin a child's silky, curly hair by bleaching it. Properly done, a grown-up's hair can be bleached without too much damage, but a child's hair will be coarsened and the bleach will tend to discourage the natural curl.

A permanent wave, given by a specialist in this type of work, may not harm your child's hair much if cared for properly afterward, but it grows out rapidly and nothing is gained except perhaps a temporary boost to your vanity.

You can make your child's hair shiny and soft, and you can encourage any natural tendency to curl, by shampooing with extra care every week or ten days. While it is still slightly damp, press in any light waves with your fingers and roll the ends on soft cotton rags or folded paper napkins.

When completely dry, remove the old-fashioned curlers, and brush each little ringlet over your finger to make it loose, soft and natural-looking.

It is a good plan to massage a little warm olive oil into the child's hair the evening before the shampoo. This helps loosen any deposits on the scalp and makes the job of washing easier. If her hair is very dry, spray it with a fine brilliantine immediately after washing it.

For suggestions on keeping the chin line firm and youthful, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my leaflet, "Unfriendly Chins."

Beauty Tips

QUESTION: "I have never paid much attention to my skin until lately, when I noticed lines around my eyes and mouth and encircling my neck. My skin seems dry. I have tried using creams for cleansing, but apparently they are not doing a good job because I have developed lots of blackheads around my nose and on my chin. Can you help me?"—V. E. R.

You will have to work harder to make up for your neglect. Use a rich cream for lubricating, but use soap and water for cleansing thoroughly and stimulating the circulation. Try cleansing first with cream, then soap and water, and apply more cream later when you massage. You might also try making a few changes in your diet—more milk and nourishing foods that will fill out the lines from within.

QUESTION: "How can I bleach my hands? They are very rough and dark and the freckles much stained from housework."—Mrs. J. Z.

Use a cut lemon or peroxide to remove the stains and make your hands fairer. To give smoothness use hand lotion or one of the non-oily hand creams after each washing and massage thoroughly each night with warm olive oil or a rich cream. Massage is needed to make the creams most effective.

Elegance for Informality

This satin blouse, worn by Betty Furness, featured screen player, is of unusual beauty. Self-figured in irregular lines; it has a deep yoke and collar of hand-made rat tail brand, sewn in complimentary design. Worn with a velvet skirt, it supplies the necessary note of elegance for cocktails or informal dinners.

Best to Plan All Meals In Advance at One Time

By JUDITH WILSON

THE homemaker who wants to serve interesting and attractive meals to her family and still have time for enjoying herself can solve her problem by planning her meals ahead by day.

For the business girl who must do her shopping on Saturday afternoons, the dinners should be planned in advance at one time. Perishables like fresh meat, fruit and vegetables then may be purchased day by day.

With such a plan you will be surprised how little shopping you will have to do during the week.

Styles Gain High Color For Spring

By IRENE VAIL

New York—You've noticed, of course, that dance frocks are sometimes bouffant and sometimes sheaths, frothy only from below the knees. This is true of frocks worn by both amateur and professional. On the stage at the French Casino here, for instance, one sees many charming dresses, both during the performance and during the entire act when the dancers take possession of the stage for dancing purposes.

Sensational though much of the exotic costuming is, in the beautiful revue, there are many shows one would love to wear and some gorgeous marabout evening wraps in lovely pastel tones that are the softest, most flattering things imaginable. These are worn not, as one might suppose, over white or harmonizing tones, but over stunning black dresses—another one of those surprise elements that always make for interest, and the drama of which is so thoroughly understood by the French.

Paris has made frequent use of marabout, often for collars or as a lining for evening wraps, but never more effectively than in this parade of all marabout wraps. It is customary to remark that never have fashions been prettier than those in vogue—even though fashion is at its most hideous expression. The idea seems to be that whatever is fashionable or smart must be lovely. Obviously that's all nonsense. Fashions are often hopelessly ugly. More often they really are pretty or effective—in any event, desirable.

The point I am really trying to make now is that the style-minded woman is most tolerant. She sees good in about everything and countenances all manner of contradictions. She takes to her bosom, in its most liberal sense, all manner of trends and influences. Some are better than others, some vastly more important. Judging from the audience at the French Casino the marabout costume is still something rarely. Prints, still more color against color are t

An Effort to Placate a Dad Who's About Fed Up With His Offspring

By MARIAN MAYS MARTIN

FOR this we have children. The exasperated father, who finds the situation no less easy to bear because it is of his own making, is not the only parent to flash S.O.S. signals to a world more or less unsympathetic with his plight.

It isn't calculated to placate him when he is reminded that family history repeats itself and that his children are probably not much different from the boys and girls of his generation.

"My dear Mrs. Martin: Noticing that you frequently receive letters from men, I am moved to ask you for a discussion of my so-called problem, which is by no means an uncommon one."

on higher ground.
Hundreds of workers used sand bags in a futile attempt to stem the rushing water which reached a depth of five feet. The current gushed through doorways, windows and crevices.
Bridges across the streams were ordered closed for fear they would be wiped out by the high waters. Telephone systems were crippled.

HEAVY RAINS

Telegraph offices in the town closed.
It was raining hard and the streams fed by tributaries from deep in the mountains and carrying off melting snow continued to rise.

The rain started Sunday and after a short lull resumed yesterday afternoon.

DAMAGE MOUNTS

The water pouring into town brought back fearful memories of 47 years ago when a deluge from a broken dam swept away the lives of more than 2000 residents. But there appeared to be little danger of a repetition of that catastrophe now.

Damage, however, mounted into the hundreds of thousands of dollars. Only one life was reported lost and that was at nearby Beavercreek where Henry Belinda, 18, was swept away by the Beaver creek as it ripped out a wooden footbridge he was crossing.

TRAFFIC HALTED

Highway traffic was at a standstill. The Lincoln highway was closed while the William Penn was in bad condition. Neither of those main traffic carriers touch Johnstown, but must be traveled to approach the city. The feed roads leading from them into the city were closed.

Trains were getting through, but were having considerable difficulty. The Pennsylvania railroad shops were closed early this morning when water poured into them. Other industrial plants were forced to shut down. Families living in the lowlands along the streams moved their household goods to second floors.

SITUATION IS SERIOUS

The flood conditions were general in Western Pennsylvania. Every town near a stream fought back flood waters.
In Pittsburgh, the situation was becoming critical. The water at the confluence of the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers rose to more than 30 feet, five feet above flood stage. The water backed up onto the streets in the lower triangle district.

Neville Last Rites Are Held Here On Tuesday

Funeralbearers were G. A. Ellis, E. J. Dingle, L. D. Owens, T. N. Calfee, H. A. Johnston and W. C. Thomas. Those who served as honorary pallbearers were B. A. Forrester, Thomas Miller, W. S. ## Voters Warned To Reregister By March 26th

Registration commenced January 1. March 26, a week from Thursday, is the last day fixed by law for registration of persons who vote at the May 5 primary.

If any resident of Contra Costa County is not registered by that date, he will not receive a ballot and will not be permitted to vote for any party at the presidential primary.

MUST REREGISTER
Many persons still believe that their registration under the permanent registration law will entitle them to a ballot, Faris announced. "All registrations were cancelled on January 1, and a new registration of voters commenced," Faris said.

"It is necessary for every person whether he has changed his residence or not, to register again before March 26, if he wants to take part in the May 5 election."

"Whether or not the voter had changed his party affiliation makes no difference."

"There is but one fact before us. The Legislature has commanded that a new registration of voters take place. That new registration commenced January 1, and will continue until March 26, in preparation for the presidential primary election."

ABSOLUTE DEADLINE
"After March 26, will be too late. The registration must be completed before that time or else the person cannot have a ballot at all."

Every assistance to the voter is being given in order to assure him of an opportunity to declare his party affiliation, and give him an opportunity to vote.

"The primary election is a party preferential election," Faris declared. "Those persons who register as Republicans will be given a ballot upon which to express their preference."

proceeded him the estate was to be given to the Berkeley home for the blind to be used for the purchase of dogs. The sister of the deceased was specifically barred from participation in the estate as she was said to have already received substantial remembrances.

A contest was started by the relative and the trial was held before Judge Johnson, who after hearing all the testimony decided that the intentions of Somerville should prevail over the claims of the sister. An appeal was taken, and the court has just handed down its decision sustaining the jurist.

In consequence the home for the blind will receive its bequest and the money will be used for the purchase of dogs, "man's best friend," and they will lead the sightless in a world which is dark as far as they are concerned—surely a worthy purpose.

So "throwing money to the dogs" is not as always as reprehensible as the common usage of the term would imply.

Auto Accident Study Told Club

Dr. A. R. Reinke, Oakland optometrist, yesterday discussed the reaction in the field of vision out-of-focus direct sight as one of the most important factors in the study of automobile accidents. Dr. Reinke was the speaker at the session of the Richmond Lions Club.

The speaker exhibited many slides to illustrate the points of his lecture.

Dave Kessler was chairman of the day. Birthdays of W. W. Forrester, George F. Imbach and Robert Washburn were recognized.

"Those who are registered Democrats will be given a ballot to express their choice in the Democratic field."

"No registered Democrat can receive a Republican ballot. And no Republican can vote a Democratic choice."

MUST STATE PARTY
Faris also pointed out that no ballots will be issued to those who register as non-partisan.

"The primary election is a party preferential election," he said. "Persons desiring to vote must declare a party affiliation, according to the provisions of the primary law."

CHILE ASSISTS

Chile backed the British in attempting to ward off the threat of sanctions by insisting that before an indictment of Germany is voted the Permanent Court of International Justice at The Hague pass on the crisis confronting the statesmen of Europe.

Delegates wrestling with the problem of averting a European war now believe the sanctions question will recede into the background while discussions center on:

1.—Submission to the World Court of the question as to whether the Franco-Soviet pact is compatible with the Locarno treaty. This action was demanded by Augustin Edwards, Council member for Chile.
2.—Arrangement of Rhineland security agreements to replace the Locarno treaty.

Bottled-Up Chicken

WHEN THIS chick was hatched, Porter Hendrick of Houston, Texas, put it in the bottle through a hole in the side to keep it out of drafts, he said. In six weeks the chick grew faster than others in the same hatching and its glass home became crowded. Hence Hendrick planned to break the bottle and release the chick, granting it some privacy, perhaps.

New York, but Inspector Norris J. Stensland, after questioning him, ordered the actor released. Rinaldo said he would be available if further questioning was required.

The actor said the chick in question was Duncan Rinaldo, Jr., 8, now with his mother, Mrs. Suzette Rinaldo, who is known as Beth Varden on the stage. He said he married her in 1925 and was divorced three years later.

Rinaldo told Stensland Mrs. Rinaldo had charged him with child abandonment when she returned to New York in 1931.

Man Bound Over On Statutory Charges

Arrested on a statutory charge involving a 14 year old girl, Edward Baldrige, 24, an itinerant, was bound over to the Superior court when he waived preliminary examination before Police Judge C. A. Odell yesterday morning.

Baldrige was arrested by local officers on February 4.

Regarding blood which State experts said was found on an eight-inch iron pipe in a bonfire in the Lamson backyard, Friedman said: "All the prosecution exhibits were brought to the sheriff's office in San Jose together. A photograph was taken of Deputy Sheriff John Moore holding a bloody slipper from the Lamson bathroom, and a few months later another photograph showed Moore holding the pipe in the same hand. It would have been easy for a speck of blood to get on the pipe."

SCORES CLAIMS

"Tell me one single incident in this entire trial where the pipe was placed in Lamson's house or in his hands."

Friedman then went to refutation of State claims that Lamson conducted a clandestine romance with attractive Sara Kelley, Sacramento divorcee.

"Lamson's visits to Sacramento were not concealed," Friedman asserted. "His employer knew about them. His expense sheets from January to April, 1933, show his visits to Sacramento, which is just what Lamson made."

BOTH SIDES LIMITED

Lindsay closed the opening half of his final argument earlier in the day. At one point he waved the pipe before the jurors, exclaiming that with such a weapon a man could have killed "a horse, mule or cow."

Both sides have been limited to two days time in their final arguments. Judge J. J. Trabucco has announced that he will not comment on the evidence presented.
